I am pleased to announce that the Energy Insurance Mutual Board of Directors has approved the promotion of G. Thomas Bolton, III, to vice president and chief financial officer. Tommy was previously EIM's controller and chief accounting officer. He joined EIM in August 2009. Since June 2010, Tommy has served as EIM's interim chief financial officer.

In his new position, Tommy is responsible for the accounting, finance, and information technology functions within EIM. He also oversees payroll and benefits, regulatory compliance, and the Company's investment portfolio. I could not be more pleased to have an individual of Tommy's talent, dedication, and forward-thinking approach to business as part of our senior management team.

During his time with EIM, Tommy has gained the trust, confidence, and respect of the EIM team, our Member Companies, and our business partners. I look forward to Tommy's continued contribution to EIM's ongoing success.

Tommy received his bachelor of science degree in accounting from the University of North Carolina–Charlotte and is a licensed certified public accountant in North Carolina and South Carolina. Before joining EIM, Tommy was a principal at Johnson Lambert & Co., managing the firm's Charleston, South Carolina office. During his more than five years with Johnson Lambert, Tommy focused almost exclusively on insurance-company and captive-insured operations.
